BUSINESS HIGHLIGHTS

SPECIALTY P&C OPERATIONS

Insurance has an indelible impact on our economy and plays a critical role in helping our policyholders manage enterprise risk. Public and private businesses, non-profit organizations and other commercial entities rely on us to provide the right mix of products and services needed to recover and restore operations following covered losses, enabling them to get back to work and serve their customers as seamlessly as possible.

Our portfolio of Specialty P&C insurance businesses dates back more than 150 years, and our long-standing commitment to specialization, innovation, and customer focus has helped to ensure we are ready when our policyholders need us most.

These Specialty P&C businesses are leaders in the markets they serve, with more than 55% of our gross written premium produced by businesses with top-10 market rankings (based on gross written premiums). We have developed this market leadership through years of specialty knowledge and expertise. We offer a wide range of coverage solutions, backed by our industry knowledge and experienced claims handling. This mix of diverse P&C businesses enables us to successfully navigate various economic cycles, nimbly react to market opportunities, and deliver exceptional service to our policyholders and agents. Over the past 10 years, the statutory combined operating ratio of our P&C operations has outperformed the P&C commercial lines industry by an average of more than seven and a half points.

An increasingly sophisticated business environment underscores the value of Specialty insurance offerings. In addition to our own in-house underwriting and claims expertise, we work closely with the specialist independent agents and brokers who distribute our products to ensure that the right products are available to meet policyholders' evolving risk profiles.

Our Specialty P&C operations produced a calendar year GAAP combined ratio of 91.0% in 2025 and our P&C Segment's statutory combined operating ratio outperformed the composite commercial P&C insurance industry by four and a half points. These results reflect exceptionally strong performance by our crop insurance operations and lower year-over-year catastrophe losses.

In 2025, gross written premiums grew 2%, to $10.7 billion, and net written premiums were flat, at $7.1 billion. Our growth in gross written premiums established a new company record for premium production. We grew our top line through new business opportunities, strong renewal rates and increased exposures.

Within certain operating units, growth was offset by underwriting actions aimed at improving or maintaining returns in our social-inflation-exposed businesses. These actions included but were not limited to lowering policy limits, increasing insured deductibles, raising attachment points and non-renewing underperforming accounts.

Frequent actuarial reviews help our business leaders understand loss development trends and patterns to help ensure rate adequacy and appropriate risk-adjusted returns. Overall average renewal rates increased about 5% in 2025. Excluding our workers' compensation businesses, renewal pricing increased approximately 6%. By the end of 2025, we had achieved overall average rate increases for 38 consecutive quarters.

We are encouraged by the level of rate increases attained during the year and the cumulative impact of these rate increases over time. We continue to target overall rate increases that generally meet or exceed prospective loss ratio trends. Specifically, we achieved mid-teen rate increases in our lines that are most exposed to social inflation in addition to taking the underwriting actions noted earlier.

Industrywide insured catastrophe losses in 2025 again surpassed $100 billion. Although lower than 2024's experience, losses from secondary perils—such as floods, wildfires and severe convective storms—have become more substantial to the industry. While we continue to have a lower catastrophe risk profile relative to our peers—particularly coastal exposures—the increasing frequency and severity of these secondary perils remains an area of focus for us. AFG's exposure to a catastrophic hurricane or earthquake that industry models indicate should statistically occur once every 500 years is expected to be less than 3% of AFG's shareholders' equity when we consider the impact of our traditional property catastrophe and catastrophe bond coverages.

We are especially pleased with the discipline and focus our leaders exemplified throughout the year, as nearly all the businesses in our diversified Specialty P&C portfolio continue to meet or exceed targeted returns. We remain confident in the strength of our reserves.

INVESTMENT OPERATIONS

We view investment management as a core competency and have a highly skilled in-house team of investment professionals. Our $17.2 billion investment portfolio—which consists primarily of investment-grade fixed maturity securities—provides a relatively predictable and steady stream of income. By following a consistent, opportunistic strategy over many years and throughout various economic conditions, we have outperformed market indices over the long term and managed portfolio risk effectively.

Net investment income in our property and casualty operations, excluding alternative investments, grew approximately 5% in 2025 compared with the previous year, primarily due to the impact of higher yields and higher balances of fixed income investments. The return on alternative investments was 2.5% for the full year, compared to 6.1% earned on these investments in 2024. Overall net investment income in our P&C insurance operations for 2025 decreased

8% year-over-year, as higher net investment income from fixed-income investments was more than offset by lower net investment income from alternative investments.

Over many years, alternative investments with underlying real estate exposures have been a key contributor to the performance of AFG's investment portfolio and have helped differentiate our portfolio of alternative investments from those of our peers. Our annual return on alternative investments averaged about 11% over the past five calendar years. Oversupply in desirable geographic areas contributed to rent pressure and flat to lower valuations on multi-family real estate in the past few years. We believe that significantly reduced new construction and tighter supply should lead to stronger rental and occupancy rates in the last half of 2026.

INDUSTRY CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

We continued to successfully navigate the numerous industry headwinds as well as economic and political uncertainty stemming from changes in fiscal policy, global trade, the regulatory environment, and changes in judicial and legislative environments. We believe that the diversity within our insurance operations and the expertise of our in-house investment management team position us well to anticipate, plan and respond to challenges. Given our favorable track record across various economic and industry cycles, we remain confident in our ability to deliver value to our policyholders, agents, shareholders and business partners.

One area that we continue to monitor closely is the impact of legal system abuse, particularly on longer-tailed liability lines. Third-party litigation funding, aggressive advertising by law firms and trial strategies aimed at influencing jurors' emotions to achieve large verdicts have resulted in industry claims costs outpacing general economic inflation. We regularly evaluate our pricing and underwriting guidelines, taking into account limits offered, attachment points and policy terms and conditions, among other factors. We are members of and collaborate with industry trade associations, including the American Property Casualty Insurance Association, where we help to raise awareness of the impact of social inflation and legal system abuse on the insurance industry and seek collective solutions. We and the industry must remain vigilant to ensure that commercial P&C insurance continues to fulfill its intended purpose: enabling business owners to manage risk so they can operate and grow their businesses—and recover when things do not go as planned.

Our P&C business model is a key advantage and differentiator for AFG. Our 36 Specialty P&C businesses operate autonomously within the unique markets they serve, supported by non-differentiated core shared services. This structure allows us to achieve the benefits of a large-scale enterprise while maintaining the nimbleness to respond in dynamic market conditions—occasionally creating tremendous opportunity, even in times of industry disruption.

We would be remiss not to acknowledge the impact that artificial intelligence (AI) is having and will continue to have on our business, our industry and our world. Through responsible, human-centered AI adoption, our goal is to amplify and elevate our core strengths: the specialized expertise and judgment that define our underwriting and claims capabilities. We have scored early wins using AI to enhance our underwriting and claims processes. We have also developed tools designed to deliver underwriting insights based on our extensive, specialized experience. We are expanding AI-enabled document summarization and extraction to support work across underwriting, claims and shared services. As we further scale AI, we are focused on initiatives that provide strong returns on our investment over time. We believe AI can generate significant value when it is applied ethically and securely to enhance human decision-making, improve operations and increase the value we deliver to customers. We are excited to benefit from technology and innovation as we build on our successes.

CREATING LONG-TERM VALUE FOR SHAREHOLDERS

AFG continued to have significant excess capital at December 31, 2025. Our first priority is to grow organically, through bolt-on or start-up businesses, and by making strategic acquisitions. As we regularly evaluate prospects to expand our Specialty P&C insurance portfolio, we consider the potential to produce desired long-term returns, alignment with our existing businesses and cultural fit. In addition to deploying capital for growth, we return excess capital to shareholders through a combination of regular and special cash dividends and through opportunistic share repurchases, which we view as an important and effective component of our capital management strategy.

Our commitment to building long-term shareholder value starts with maintaining strong and consistent operating businesses. Our success depends on disciplined underwriting, prudent pricing, and careful claims and expense management. Through our entrepreneurial business model and effective alignment of incentives with value-creating business objectives, we foster a culture of empowerment and accountability that provides a strong foundation for success.

We are proud of our history of value creation. In addition to more than $600 million returned to shareholders in the form of regular and special dividends during 2025, we also increased our regular quarterly dividend by 10%, to an annual rate of $3.52 per share, beginning in October 2025. This marks the 20th consecutive annual dividend increase for AFG. The ten-year compound annual growth rate for dividends paid to our shareholders was 12.3%, excluding special dividends. In addition to our regular quarterly dividend, we have paid $55.50 per share in special dividends since the beginning of 2021.

Dividend payments and share repurchases have enabled us to return $6.3 billion to our shareholders over the past five years. Total shareholder return on AFG's Common Stock, which includes the change in price plus dividends, was approximately 161% over the 5-year period ending December 31, 2025. This return far exceeded comparable indices, and it serves as a benchmark for evaluating our effectiveness in creating value over the long term.

Members of the Lindner family serve as senior executives and board members, and the Lindner family continues to hold a sizable interest in AFG's Common Stock. We believe that our significant family involvement and investment, together with the shares held by our management team and employees, align our interests with those of our shareholders.

Operational
Overview

Specialty expertise and an entrepreneurial spirit are core elements of AFG’s operational strength. Our P&C businesses are managed by experienced leaders, each responsible for their own underwriting, marketing, claims and policy servicing. This autonomous approach promotes agility and empowers our P&C businesses to respond to local and specialty market conditions while leveraging centralized investment and administrative support. A robust suite of enterprise shared services functions underpins corporate and back-office functions, allowing our P&C professionals to focus on the core fundamentals of their insurance businesses.

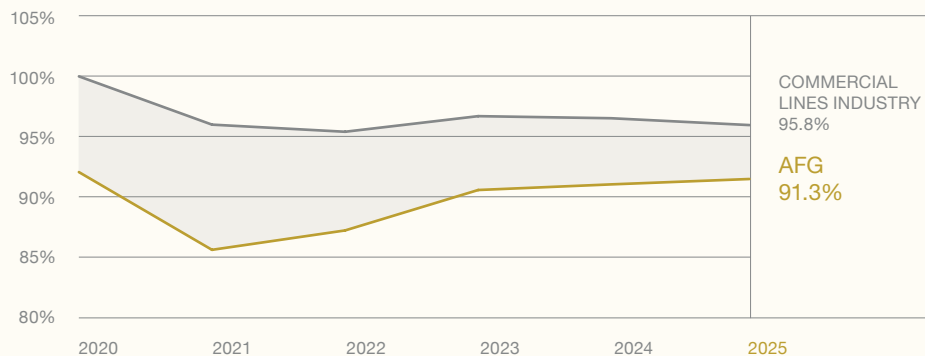

Over the course of many years, we have achieved consistent core operating earnings through our diversified business model composed of Specialty P&C businesses that are not closely correlated to the general P&C cycle.

SPECIALTY P&C INSURANCE OPERATIONS

Our 36 Specialty P&C businesses provide tailored insurance solutions that help organizations manage their unique operational, industry and market risks. Many of our businesses are leaders in the markets they serve, including crop, equine, fidelity/crime, financial institutions services, moving and storage, nonprofit/social services, ocean marine, passenger transportation, public entity, trade credit, trucking and workers’ compensation.

Strategic acquisitions, business bolt-ons and start-ups have helped us build a portfolio of Specialty P&C businesses in areas where we have deep expertise in developing, delivering and servicing products for specialty niches.

P&C STATUTORY COMBINED RATIO

Commercial Lines Industry based on data from AM Best’s Market Segment Report—February 23, 2026.

Our diversified book of businesses, strong capital adequacy, disciplined pricing and relatively low exposure to windstorm, earthquake and coastal risks are central to our Specialty P&C strategy.

We recognize and reward our P&C professionals for their role in driving profitable growth and delivering strong returns on equity. Performance benchmarks, along with operational and financial measures, provide a clear line of sight into our overall results. This approach ensures that we expand our business when we can achieve targeted returns. As a result, our growth remains disciplined.

Our strategy also means that premium volume will vary based on market conditions, pricing and other factors. Occasionally, we will withdraw from markets that do not meet profit objectives or fit within our business model.

Strategic alignment of interests is a key differentiator for AFG. We strive to create effective alignment on several levels—including with our investors, executives, employees, agents and insureds. Nearly a quarter of AFG shares are held by the Lindner family, executives and our retirement plan—creating even stronger long-term alignment of interests with our shareholders. Also, we align with our policyholders and agents through a variety of risk-sharing and alternative risk transfer programs.

INVESTMENT OUTPERFORMANCE

Our highly talented in-house investment team consists of long-tenured professionals averaging almost 20 years of experience. Together, the team has successfully navigated multiple market cycles, including the global financial crisis of 2008 and the COVID pandemic. While these events triggered widespread financial instability and economic downturns, they also presented valuable learning and investment opportunities that have contributed to our exceptional long-term results.

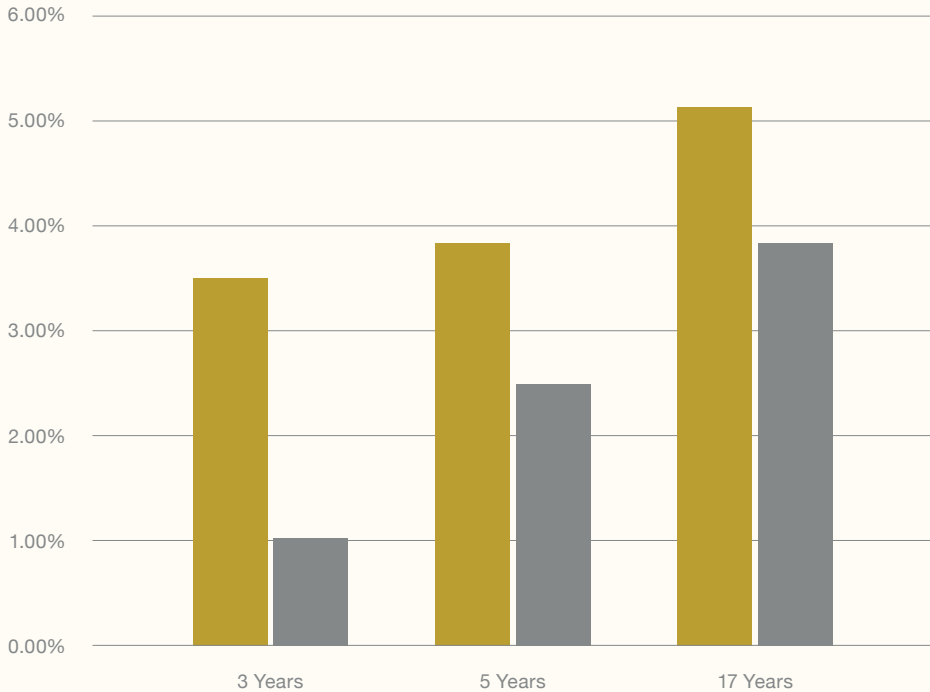

Over the 17 years ended 2024, a period that includes the impact of the global financial crisis, AFG’s total investment portfolio outperformed the P&C insurance industry by an average of 1.3%* per year, resulting in approximately $2.0 billion of cumulative outperformance on a pretax basis. These results place AFG near the very top of P&C insurance peers’ investment performance over the same period.

We believe our ownership culture and focus on long-term results contributed to this significant achievement. Our in-house team of investment professionals is focused on optimizing returns while also managing risks and being mindful of downside protection. Unlike many investment managers, we do not measure our performance over the short term. Instead, our long-term focus allows us to be opportunistic and take contrarian positions when appropriate. Over time, this flexibility has contributed significantly to our investment success.

Opera
Overview

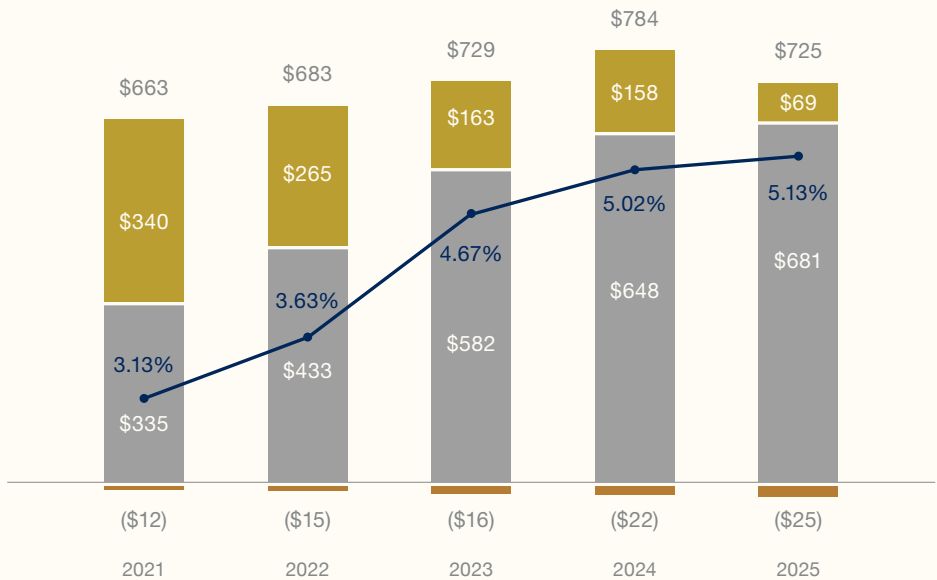

Over the past five years, net investment income, excluding the impact of alternative investments, more than doubled as a result of higher interest rates and higher balances of invested assets. Total P&C net investment income, including the impact of alternative investments, was $725 million in 2025, approximately 8% lower than the comparable 2024 period due to lower returns on alternative investments. Earnings from alternative investments can fluctuate significantly from period to period based on the reported results and valuation of the underlying investments.

The sources of our impressive long-term results have varied, with some periods yielding significant returns from alternative investments and others benefiting from fixed-income investments. The strategic diversification of the portfolio across various asset classes has ensured strong performance over the long term.

High-quality, fixed-income investments account for the vast majority of AFG's investment portfolio. Today, approximately 80% of AFG's $17.2 billion investment portfolio consists of fixed maturity securities, cash and mortgage loans. These investments provide a relatively predictable, steady stream of income.

Our fixed maturity securities portfolio is high-quality with an average credit rating of AA. While we maintain a long-term perspective, we are always aware of the current investment environment.

FIXED MATURITIES DETAIL

Similar to last year, spreads currently offered on public corporate bonds are at multi-decade lows. Simply put, we believe the risk/reward tradeoff does not support an aggressive approach. In response, we have conservatively positioned our corporate bond portfolio, ensuring it has minimal exposure to non-investment grade credit.

Approximately 96% of our fixed maturity securities are rated investment grade, and 97% of our P&C Group fixed maturity securities have an NAIC designation of 1 or 2, the highest two categories. Today, we can invest in high-quality fixed maturity securities at yields that approximate the 5.13% yield earned on fixed maturities in our P&C portfolio last year.

The remaining approximately 20% of AFG's investment portfolio consists of alternative investments, equities, real estate and other investments. Alternative investments with underlying real estate exposures have been a key contributor to our portfolio's success over the long term. We view our investments in real estate and related entities as a core competency. We have found success in investing in multi-family properties in desirable geographic communities with favorable long-term prospects. These multi-family properties represent approximately 45% of our alternative investment portfolio. In 2025, AFG's return on alternative investments was 2.5%, while the average annual return over the five calendar years ending December 31, 2025, was approximately 11%. We remain optimistic regarding the prospects of attractive returns from our alternative investment portfolio, with an expectation of annual returns averaging 10% or better.
